Document title: "La Via Campesina"

HIGHLIGHTED ARTICLES

Peasant and Small-Scale Agriculture vs. Climate-Smashing Agriculture

During the first nine days of November, a number of representatives of local and political movements, trade unions, and farmers’ organisations from 25 countries met in Lima, Peru, in order to establish the main points of the future struggle against the Free Trade Agreements. Three main points were decided: calling for the suspension of the Free Trade Agreements and the withdrawal of the delegations from the climate talks in Lima; in defense of the human rights of our compañeros in the region and the respect for the territorial rights of Andean and Amazonian peoples; and for the welcoming of the delegate of the CLOC Secretariat, declared, on the 10th, in a march of 10,000 people through the centre of the city. At the closing ceremony, Diego Montón, the vice-president of the Latin American Coordination and the International Coordinator of Via Campesina said: "Today we have come to Lima, to defend our past, our present and our future. We have come to demand the implementation of the Cancún Agreement, which is a reference in the fight against the free trade agreements."

Statement on Solidarity Mission with Palestinian Farmers

In March, we hosted Adalberto “Pardal” Martins from MST (Movement of Landless Rural Workers), Brazil. This came as a blow to the Landless Workers’ Movement (MST), in Brazil. This visit was addressed to the landless and organizations in the region, including the organization of production and cooperatives, the organization of social movements, and the position of the Yasuní basin in the region. The purpose of the visit was to share the knowledge of MST and its experience of land struggle and the fight against the TNCs, and to support the demands of the landless of the region. The visit was a powerful demonstration of the solidarity of the MST with the landless in the region.

Defend and live! No Land No Food No Life

For cases that somehow remain, the law states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. The law states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population. It states that the rental of land is the property of the small and medium farmers, the biggest share of the population.

New Videos! Scale Agriculture vs. Climate

(Barcelona, Spain, 12 November 2014) At the COP20, the intercontinental Solidarity Week to Defend Life and Food against Fast Capitalism and Confront the Climate Crisis began in Barcelona today with the participation of over 200 organizations from around the world. This Solidarity Week, which is organized by the International Coordination of La Via Campesina, is the first of a series of events that will take place in different cities around the world in 2015. The Solidarity Week is the result of the convergence of different struggles against capitalism and climate change, and it is the expression of the solidarity that is being built between the struggles of our brothers and sisters around the world.

La Via Campesina solidarity visit to Douro

(Porto, Portugal, 26 November 2014) On November 24th of 2014, following meetings of the ILA (International Land Alliances), the LVC (La Via Campesina) and the IACT (International Committee of Agricultural Cooperatives), a delegation from the LVC and the IACT (International Committee of Agricultural Cooperatives) visited vineyards owned by family farmers in the demarcated region of the Douro district. This visit was addressed to the landless and organizations in the region, including the organization of production and cooperatives, the organization of social movements, and the position of the Yasuní basin in the region. The purpose of the visit was to share the knowledge of MST and its experience of land struggle and the fight against the TNCs, and to support the demands of the landless of the region. The visit was a powerful demonstration of the solidarity of the MST with the landless in the region.

Scaling Agriculture vs. Climate

(Vienna, Austria, November 19-23, 2014) In the past year, LVC India solidarity visit to Douro, Portugal. On November 19-23, 2014, a delegation from the LVC (La Via Campesina) and the IACT (International Committee of Agricultural Cooperatives) visited vineyards owned by family farmers in the demarcated region of the Douro district. This visit was addressed to the landless and organizations in the region, including the organization of production and cooperatives, the organization of social movements, and the position of the Yasuní basin in the region. The purpose of the visit was to share the knowledge of MST and its experience of land struggle and the fight against the TNCs, and to support the demands of the landless of the region. The visit was a powerful demonstration of the solidarity of the MST with the landless in the region.

Building Bridges with MST

(Vienna, Austria, November 19-23, 2014) The visit was organized by the MST (Movement of Landless Rural Workers) and guided by one of its members, buses, and cars. This visit was addressed to the landless and organizations in the region, including the organization of production and cooperatives, the organization of social movements, and the position of the Yasuní basin in the region. The purpose of the visit was to share the knowledge of MST and its experience of land struggle and the fight against the TNCs, and to support the demands of the landless of the region. The visit was a powerful demonstration of the solidarity of the MST with the landless in the region.